Define Problem Statements (Customer Problem Statement Template)

The team used the Customer Problem Statement template to understand the perspective of Priya, a content creator who manages multiple blogs but finds it difficult to create, organize, summarize, and manage blog content efficiently.

PS	I am (Customer)	I'm trying to	But	Because	Which makes me feel
PS-1	Priya, a content creator managing multiple blogs	publish high-quality posts on a consistent schedule	spends significant time writing and editing every single post from a blank page	there is no assisted way to generate a first draft from just a topic or a few keywords	time-pressured and creatively drained
PS-2	Priya, juggling a growing library of long-form posts	help readers quickly find the gist of a lengthy article	has no built-in way to condense long content into a short, accurate summary	summarization today means manually re-reading and re-writing her own posts	overwhelmed by the maintenance overhead of her own content
PS-3	Priya, working with editors and guest authors on one blog	let each collaborator do only what their role allows - write, review, publish, or just read and comment	most simple blogging setups have no real role separation or comment moderation	there is no role-based access control layered on top of authentication	anxious about content quality and accountability slipping as the team grows
